INZ 1201

Limited Medical Certificate

Who should use this form?

Applicants for entry to New Zealand are required to have an acceptable standard of health (the leaflet Health Requirements (INZ 1121) has more details). This medical certificate records information about your health that Immigration New Zealand requires to assess whether you meet this standard.

Most people can submit health information electronically via their panel physician. If you are not able to submit electronically, your visa application will need to include this completed form. To find out if you can submit your health information electronically, go to www.immigration.govt.nz/paneldoctors.

Deciding whether you are eligible for a visa

Immigration New Zealand collects the information about you on this form to decide whether you are eligible for a visa. We may also use the information to contact you for research purposes or to advise you on immigration matters.

Collecting the information is authorised by the Immigration Act 2009 and the Immigration Regulations made under that Act. You do not have to provide the information, but if you do not we are likely to decline your application.

Immigration New Zealand may also share the information you have provided with other government agencies that are entitled to it by law, or with other agencies (as you have agreed in the declaration).

You are able to ask for the information we hold about you and request to have any of it corrected if you think it is necessary. The address of Immigration New Zealand is PO Box 1473, Wellington, New Zealand. This is not where your application should be sent.

Applicant's notes

The information in this section will help you complete this certificate. Please read the information in this section before you start to complete this certificate. If you wish, you can tear off and keep these notes (pages 1-2).

When do I use this immigration medical certificate?

You must use this certificate if you are:

- the partner of a New Zealand citizen or resident and you meet the requirements of the Partnership Category, which includes having lived together with your partner for 12 months or more in a partnership which is genuine and stable (your dependent children (if any) should also use this certificate), or
- the dependent child of a New Zealand citizen or resident, or
- a person (or the partner or dependent child of a person) who has been recognised as having refugee or protection status* in New Zealand, or
- a UNHCR-mandated refugee who has been selected as a candidate for New Zealand's Refugee Quota Programme, or
- an applicant under the Refugee Quota Family Reunification (RQFR) Category.

You must not use this certificate if you are applying for a visa as the partner or dependent child of a New Zealand citizen or resident and you were not included in, or were withdrawn from the earlier residence application made by your partner or parent. If this situation applies to you, you must use the General Medical Certificate (INZ 1007).

Note: International Organization for Migration (IOM) examining physicians who are undertaking immigration medical examinations for UNHCR-mandated refugees and RQFR Category applicants should refer to the notes on pages 3 to 4.

* A person has refugee or protected person status in New Zealand if they have been recognised as such under the Immigration Act 2009.

What if I submitted a medical certificate with my last application?

You may not need a new medical certificate if you submitted a medical certificate completed and dated by a medical practitioner within the last 36 months with a previous application, and that information has been retained by Immigration New Zealand*. If a new certificate is required you are responsible for any fees.

Where do I go to get my immigration medical examination?

In countries where Immigration New Zealand has an approved list of panel physicians, this certificate must be completed by a panel physician. Please see our website at www.immigration.govt.nz/healthinfo to find your nearest panel physician.

If you live in a country that does not have any panel physicians, a registered medical practitioner can complete this certificate.

Your responsibilities

- All applicants must pay the fees for the immigration medical examination, any tests required and all postage and courier fees.
- All applicants must tell the truth. False statements on a medical certificate may result in your application being declined, any visa granted being cancelled, and if you are in New Zealand, you being required to leave the country.

How do I prepare for my immigration medical examination?

- If you are mildly unwell or on a short course of antibiotics, wait until you are better before having your immigration medical examination.
- Do not have alcohol or high-fat meals 48 hours before your blood tests.
- Do not consume kava for 48 hours before your blood tests.

What do I bring?

- This certificate with sections A and I completed, and your name at the top of each page where indicated.
- Your valid passport or national identity document for identification.
- Three recent colour passport photos. Photographs must be no more than six months old.
- All your medical notes and reports, blood test results, X-rays, scans and anything else that is relevant to your health.
- Your glasses (spectacles) or contact lenses if you use them.

- You may bring an interpreter with you to the immigration medical examination. The interpreter can be from a professional service or a respected member of your community. Please let the physician know when you make your appointment.

What to expect for the immigration medical examination

There are three parts of the immigration medical examination:

1. medical history and physical examination
  2. blood tests, and
  3. chest X-ray, to be completed using form Chest X-ray Certificate (INZ 1096); the leaflet Health Requirements (INZ 1121) has more details.
- the medical certificate must be completed in English
  - you may complete the medical history section (Section B) before your examination, or with the physician (or delegated person) at your examination
  - the physician will complete the physical examination. You may need to remove some items of clothing for the physical examination
  - some parts of the physical examination may be carried out by a nurse or health care assistant
  - you will also need to get blood tests, a chest X-ray and possibly some other tests if clinically necessary, and
  - you may need to go to different places to get some tests done.

Women

Do not have your immigration medical examination during your period (menstruation) because blood may affect the results. Wait until your period is finished before you have your immigration medical examination.

Children

- All children including babies must have an immigration medical examination.
- Children under 11 years of age do not need a chest X-ray unless the physician declares it is necessary or one is requested by Immigration New Zealand.
- Children under 15 years of age do not need a blood test unless the physician declares it is necessary or one is requested by Immigration New Zealand.

What happens afterwards?

- Your physician has to wait for all your test results to complete the form.
- Your application form is complete only when all the completed test results and specialist reports have been attached and the physician has completed all sections of the form.
- You must submit your completed immigration medical examination, including all blood tests, and X-rays (Chest X-ray Certificate (INZ 1096)) and any other tests, within three months from the date the physician signed the completed application form.
- Your application will be assessed by Immigration New Zealand, and possibly by a medical assessor.
- You may be required to get further specialist reports or tests. You are responsible for paying for these.

* Immigration New Zealand does not necessarily retain medical information about applicants.

- Your medical information may be retained by Immigration New Zealand for use when assessing your health in the future or for audit reasons.

Purpose of medical assessment (for UNHCR-mandated refugees and Refugee Quota Family Reunification (RQFR) Category applicants: Stage One)

The information about the candidate on this form is being collected so that their case for residence in New Zealand can be properly considered.

The main recipient of the information is the Refugee Quota Branch of Immigration New Zealand (INZ), but it may also be shared with other Government agencies which are entitled to this information under applicable legislation.

The collection of the information is authorised by the Immigration Act 2009 and the Immigration Regulations made under that Act. The supply of the information is voluntary, but if candidates do not supply it then they are unlikely to be granted residence in New Zealand under the Refugee Quota Programme.

Candidates are able to ask for the information INZ holds about them and to ask for any of it to be corrected if they think that is necessary.

The address where this information will be held is:

Refugee Quota Branch
Immigration New Zealand
PO Box 22315
Otahuhu
Auckland

This medical certificate is for:

- mandated refugees who have been selected as candidates for New Zealand's Refugee Quota Programme (candidates), and
- applicants under the Refugee Quota Family Reunification (RQFR) Category.

For the purposes of this certificate, where the term 'applicant' is used this will also apply to 'candidates'.

Examining physician's notes

The information in this section will help you complete this certificate on behalf of a mandated refugee or RQFR applicant. Please read the information in this section before you start to complete this certificate.

The certificate is complete only when all the completed test results and specialist reports have been attached and you have completed all sections of the form.

The medical certificate must be completed in English.

What candidates should expect from the immigration medical examination process

This is the first part of this medical examination. It involves the taking of a medical history, a physical examination, and blood tests.

As the examining physician, you will complete the physical examination. The candidate may need to remove some items of clothing for the physical examination. Some parts of the physical examination may be carried out by a nurse or health care assistant.

The second part of the medical examination, the chest X-ray, will be completed by an IOM-approved radiologist or radiographer on a separate form – Chest X-ray Certificate (INZ 1096), once INZ's Refugee Quota Branch indicates that the chest X-ray examination should proceed.

Women

I declare that the information that I have provided in terms of my medical history and during my immigration health examinations is true, complete and correct.

I understand that:

- my personal details and health information are being collected to enable Immigration New Zealand ("INZ"), Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment ("MBIE") to determine whether or not they are satisfied that I meet the health criteria for a New Zealand visa(s);
- INZ is authorised to collect and use my personal information under the Immigration Act 2009, the Immigration Regulations made under that Act and in accordance with the Privacy Act 1993; further information about the purposes for which INZ requires my information is included in my visa application form which can be found on the INZ website at www.immigration.govt.nz;
- if I have provided any false or misleading information as part of my immigration health examination, my visa application(s) may be declined, and I may lose any right of appeal of the decision to decline the application. I may become liable for deportation. I may also be committing an offence and I may be imprisoned;

- INZ will retain my personal information for use in assessing my health in the future as necessary, or for audit reasons.

I also understand that my personal information (including medical results, bio details and photographs) may be disclosed to:

- New Zealand Government health agencies, health and settlement service providers and examining physician(s);
- New Zealand Government agencies entitled to receive this information by law, to the extent necessary to make decisions about my immigration status; and

The reason(s) for this disclosure will be to investigate inconsistencies between the radiologist and/or panel physician's examination and a previous/subsequent health assessment, to investigate a complaint against the radiologist or panel physician, or to follow up adverse results with the radiologist or panel physician to ensure the quality of the work undertaken by New Zealand's panel physician network;
